

We hope this newsletter finds you well as we kick off the new year with exciting updates from our recent activities.

ReCCI in between Vieux Lyon and innovation

The vibrant city of Lyon played host to the final event of ReCCI at the alternative and innovative headquarters of Arty Farty. Amidst red walls, towering banana plants in offices, and a professional recording studio, our partners gathered to reflect on the project's journey and share insights with the local community and beyond. A podcast was recorded during the event, delving into the various project actions, with a special focus on the intriguing aspects of training. Beyond project dissemination, an engaging discussion unfolded about the role of women in the music industry and the parallels between European projects involving artists.

The Grand Finale meeting: a new beginning

The concluding event not only brought our partners together but also marked the final in-person meeting before the project's official closure. Yes, the project has reached its application end, but, in reality, we are just getting started! The European funds utilized have laid a strong foundation, enabling us to continue making a collective impact on the European Cultural and Creative Industries. Conceived in 2020 during the challenging times of the pandemic, the project has evolved positively, aligning with the global progress in overcoming the pandemic's challenges. This has been a source of encouragement for artists as they absorbed new knowledge and skills during these transformative times.
